Interesting stuff from Dubbo, Australia and around the world

Recreation renovation: Work continues this month to spruce up parts of Dubbo's Victoria Park. The pond area on the No.2 and No.3 oval side of the park is shown in this photo, undergoing renovations. We're looking forward to seeing the end result!

To market, to market: We'll avoid any jokes about which little piggy went to market... Farmer Michael from Extraordinary Pork, a new farming operation that has commenced operations in Dubbo this year, is pictured at the very popular Farmer's Market earlier in month. The markets are back this Saturday, November 15, at Macquarie Lions Park next to Dubbo's Information Centre.

Supergirl: A participant dressed in an Heroic Fantasy costume poses during the first edition of the HeroFestival in Marseille, France on the weekend. The festival is dedicated to American superhero comics, Japanese mangas, Heroic Fantasy characters and video game universes. PHOTO: REUTERS/JEAN-PAUL PELISSIER

Daily life: A girl wearing a hat and tanaka paste on her face waters flowers at a main intersection in Naypyitaw, Myanmar this week. Leaders from ASEAN, East Asian and other countries are gathering for the ASEAN summit this week in the Myanmar capital. PHOTO: REUTERS/DAMIR SAGOLJ

Is that Pinocchio? Demonstrators hold flags during a demonstration against the government in downtown Rome on Saturday. Tens of thousands of Italian civil service workers marched for better pay, new contracts and a boost to employment. The Pinocchio balloon is a likeness of a local politician.
